

Flexi-melt™

quick dissolve, easy to take glucosamine

– Special offer for AXA PPP healthcare members - 50% discount

Glucosamine is a naturally occurring substance – an amino sugar produced in the body from glucose – vital to the body's connective tissue and to maintaining healthy cartilage in our joints. As we grow older, our natural levels of glucosamine are depleted so many people choose to take glucosamine supplements to help keep their joints healthy, as well as to reduce the pain caused by conditions such as osteoarthritis.

Flexi-melt™ has been developed to make taking glucosamine easier.

Why choose Flexi-melt™?

- Sugar-free
- 'Soft-melt' system, dissolves quickly on the tongue
- Natural citrus flavour

Flexi-melt™ is glucosamine hydrochloride and contains a higher percentage of glucosamine than glucosamine sulphate – 83% rather than 65%. In addition, Flexi-melt™ does not contain potassium salts and may therefore be a preferable choice for people who are monitoring their potassium intake.

The recommended daily dose of Flexi-melt™ is two tablets, each one containing 750mg of glucosamine hydrochloride providing 620mg of glucosamine base.

"Flexi-Melt is very easy to take. They are also convenient when away from home or travelling as they don't require water... As the tablets melt they have a flavour that is quite pleasant and an added bonus is that they don't contain sugar!"

Margaret Oddy, 57 years old, has been taking glucosamine for over 5 years to help manage her arthritis.
